Dear Tom,

I know that you like historical movies. That's why I thought we could watch Sherlock Holmes together. I have found some film reviews in an online forum.

There was only one person who didn't like the movie at all. He doesn't understand why they didn't choose real Victorian places and thinks the visual effects looked fake.

According to the other reviews the places were historically correct, just like the costumes (only the hair wasn't). They think they cleverly mixed in the visual effects. There were only too many.

People criticised that the movie is rather modern instead of Victorian, but mostly they still enjoyed it a lot. It's true that there's a lot of action in the movie and there are some things that aren't perfect, but I think the movie is a fun way to experience Victorian Britain and we should watch it.

See you soon

Love, xxx
